

2. Post-secondary program and service planning strategies that adopt a “pan-Northern” focus and incorporate the use of educational technology to support access and flexibility for learners, and that integrate and link secondary school students directly to college programs, as we do currently with the trades programs we deliver in partnership with school districts